

PEEL Paragraph

Parents should not allow their children to watch violent TV shows as it causes them to be more violent. When children see a lot of violence on TV, they start to think it is normal and copy the aggressive behavior. An experiment at Pennsylvania State University showed that pre-school children who watched violent TV shows were far more likely to hit and argue with other children than preschoolers who did not watch these shows. Clearly, parents should not allow their children to see violence on television as it makes young people more aggressive.
