

Sunset Paradise

A sunset is the soft velvety touch of satin gently caressing your cheek as you dip your toes into cool tranquil waters on a warm summer's day. It is the inviting fragrant aroma of homemade bread wafting its way through a tree laden paradise where the methodical memory of the wind holds you in its ethereal splendor as the whistling of the whippoorwill signifies the day is succumbing to the night. As the heavenly ember glides effortlessly below the horizon a fantasy-world of magnificence carefully peeks out from behind dew laden lilies to passionately drink in the last bits of reality before the dreams of tomorrow hold us in their promising embrace...slowly, lovingly, giving one last hug before we turn in and draw our covers tightly upon our tired and restful souls.